NEWS AND COMMENT.

"JACK, the Ripper," is on the war path again.

THERE is a political phœnix up in Pennsylvania—Congressman PAYNE, who, after defeating his opponent in a nominating convention by a vote of 5 to 1, had his name withdrawn, and expressed his intention of serving no more in public life. He was satisfied with the endorsement of his party without a continuance of the honors pertaining thereto. Generally it may truly be said of those who are once inoculated with the "itch of office:" "Few die and none resign."

THE steady, advancing step of progress throughout North Carolina is truly refreshing. Last week's Manufacturers' Record places the number of improvements in the way of new industries in the State during the week at forty-one. This embraces all classes of manufacturing as well as the development of mines, timbers &c., and is the largest number reported by any State in the Union to-day. 'Rah, for Carolina, Carolina! Heaven's blessings attend her.

LAST week's Robesonian felt the pulse of many of the leading men in the sixth district as to their choice for the next Congressman from that district, many of whom—a very large majority, in fact—expressed their preference for the return of the present able, influential and efficient member, Hon. ALFRED ROWLAND, of Robeson, to any man who would sell his stock in a national bank ostensibly for the purpose of entering the political arena and to wage warfare on national banks. Sensible men, these.

DR. BATTLE has published a card denying the rumor that he would decline the presidency of the State University. This is good news for the University, and will be received with a hearty welcome by the friends of this old and cherished institution all over the country. In our opinion no institution in North Carolina or out of it can boast of a more zealous, faithful, untiring and competent officer than the Hon. KEMP P. BATTLE; and, with such a man at the helm, our State University will continue, as it should be, the pride of every Carolinian's heart.

THERE is no better proof of the entente cordiale existing between the sensible people of the two sections of this great country than the good-humored, contemptuous indifference with which they regard the lurid tergiversations of Col. ELLIOTT F. SHEPARD, editor of the New York Mail and Express. They recognize the fact that his father-in-law, the late W. H. VANDERBILT, correctly guaged his calibre when he declared that he was "more different kinds of a d——d fool than any man he ever saw." He howls over the enormities of the "Southern rebels," and the "Southern rebels" and the Northern Union men laugh—and that's all.

"JUST why it should be expected of the people of Greensboro to contribute money, or anything else, to Bennett Seminary, we are at a loss to understand. It was the asylum of the infamous JOYNER, and if such slanderers and vilifiers of the South and our people are to find refuge in this institution, the people of Greensboro ought to let it severely alone." Right, brothers of the Patriot. If the class of people North, who have been sending pestilential and incendiary emissaries down South, want such institutions sustained, let them go down into their own pockets. Poor as our people are, they have managed to contribute enough money for institutions in their midst, hurtful and alien to their interests, to do them a great deal of harm.

So far as time and opportunity have enabled us to peruse the reports of the recent school and college commencements, they appear to us, in the main, highly gratifying—not only giving evidence of a prosperous condition of the different institutions but—what is of even more importance—evincing a breadth of intellectual thought and a refinement of intellectual polish by which Parnassus has not always been characterized. Salutatories, valedictories and prize essays, fortified by classic lore and embellished by rhetorical tropes and figures, are very well, but they necessarily smack of sophomoric crudeness. Facility in "spouting" Greek and Latin has not carried a young man beyond the first rudiments of a finished scholar, and it is pleasing to note in the published programmes of the past two weeks indications that the young student is beginning to gain immeasurably by attrition with the cultured literary world.

THE editor of the Grand Army Journal is never better satisfied than when making an ass of himself. He caught the resounding echoes of the "old rebel yell" at Richmond the other day on the occasion of the unveiling of the Lee statue, and he has been threatened with the nightmare ever since. Indeed, it put such a "bad taste in his mouth" that he pulled himself up on the top of a goods box in Washington the other day, and declared that "such demonstrations as were had at Richmond should not be allowed, and that Congress should pass a law to burn every Confederate flag." It didn't cost the aforesaid editor much to make a fool of himself, but whenever he or Congress—or both, as for that matter—undertakes to burn every Confederate flag in the country they will find a task not much easier than that they found in conquering the Army of Northern Virginia. While the South is and will ever remain loyal to the "stars and stripes," yet we have a warm place in our hearts for the "stars and bars," and loyalty to the stars and stripes does not mean disloyalty to the stars and bars.

Funny John Allen.

Private John Allen, of Tupelo, in the State of Mississippi, is now, beyond dispute, the leading humorist in the House of Representatives. He is not a comical man to look at. If you have followed him closely in the newspapers you will understand, when you first see him lolling in his chair on the middle aisle, or rolling out a new story in his quaint Southern dialect, why an irreverent paragrapher suggested that he wear moth balls in his hat. The middle space of his top head is supplied with little irregular tufts of hair, half concealing and half disclosing the scalp.

The man is sensibly funny. His wit is of the logical sort—always used as much to turn an argument as to arrest attention and amuse. Allen was a pupil in the office of Justice Lamar. Meeting the latter in an avenue herdic car the other day, I told him one of Allen's latest yarns. The Judge did not smile, but pondered. Presently he said:

"When Allen was studying law in my office no one suspected him of being funny. I found it out afterward. I had promised to speak at a meeting down there, and I was late. When I entered the hall Allen was speaking, having just begun. He saw me, and at once announced that he had consented to speak only after much urging. 'I shall give you a great disappointment,' said he, 'for I shall make way for another speaker—a man who has prepared himself for the occasion, and who would be much more disappointed than you if you did not listen to him. If you knew more about me you would be in some measure prepared for the shock which I am about to give you. I see Col. Lamar back there in the hall. Knowing how greatly he enjoys making a speech, and the fine assumption of attention he is always able to command from an audience, I will disappoint you in your expectation of hearing me, and yield the platform to Col. Lamar.'"

Allen has been vastly amused at being described in one of the Northern papers as a fire-eater. He has about as much of the manner of the fire-eater of tradition as Mr. Augustin Daly. He is a story-teller with an inexhaustible budget. He tells a new story every day, and he has furnished more entertaining paragraphs to the newspapers this session than all the other members of Congress combined.

Interrupted Memory.

From an article entitled "A Study of Consciousness," by Professor H. S. Wood in the Century, we quote as follows: "During the Centennial Exposition a big, burly Scotchman was brought to the hospital unconscious from sun-stroke. I plunged him into a mass of slush and water, and piled great quantities of ice on his head. As he gradually struggled back to consciousness, his first sensation was that he was packed away in an ice-box, and doomed. When he came more fully to himself his first inquiry was: 'Who am I?' I said: 'Who are you?' This he could not answer. For four days that man lay in the hospital, apparently perfectly rational, wondering who he was. During all this time his friends were seeking him, and had detectives looking for him all through Philadelphia. At last his recollection came back, and he was able to give his name.

"Some years ago, in one of our Southern cities, a man was seized by the police, and taken to the hospital, where he told the following story: 'I know nothing as to who I am or where I came from. All I know is that I found myself on the railroad platform a short time ago. I then drifted into a hall, and heard a temperance lecture; goaded into fury by the eloquence of the speaker, I rushed out, and began to smash the windows of a neighboring drinking-saloon; a consequent attack on me by the roughs led to my arrest by the police, and to my being brought to the hospital. That is all I know: who I am I cannot tell.' At the time of the publication of the report of this case the hospital authorities had not ascertained who the man was."

"The World Owes Me a Living."

Far too many people say: "The world owes me a living." There is more sound than sense in the expression.

The world can owe us for only what we have done for it. He who believes that the world is still owing him may as well understand that he must use force with the debtor to secure payment; and you had better be about it at once, or you will "get left."

Granting that the world does owe you a living, you must work to compel the world to pay its debt. Even if the world does owe men a living, some are too lazy to collect it. Some people never learn that they must work for what they get in this world—that they cannot get something for nothing. Those who try to get a living without work never succeed. They generally land in the penitentiary, and there work for what they get.

The world needs men of genius, but the highest type of genius is spelled w-o-r-k. Do not hang around, waiting to go into partnership with Mr. Luck, for Mr. Luck died with the last century. Neither, like Micawber, "wait for something to turn up;" Micawber found, and you will find, that it is better to go to work, and turn up something.

"Steal My Thunder."

The origin of many slang expressions which are current is apt to be very dubious, to say the least, many of them originating in low music-halls and places of that ilk. But there are still many which have had their origin from some well-known incident, the late war being very prolific of such sayings. There is one that is pretty familiar and well-authenticated, of which the original story, as related by D'Israeli, is as follows: "The actors refused to perform one of John Dennis's tragedies to empty houses, but they retained some excellent thunder which he had invented. It rolled one night when Dennis was in the pit, and the audience applauded. Suddenly starting up, he exclaimed: 'They won't act my tragedy, but they steal my thunder!'"

The Trouble Spreading.

Jupiter (over the Olympian telephone)—Hello, Gen. Greely!

Gen. Greely—Hello!

Jupiter—I am very sorry, but I must cancel your last order for thunder-storms.

Gen. Greely—What's the matter?

Jupiter—The Cyclops have gone on a strike, and I'm short of thunderbolts.

Mrs. Crossgrain (during a squabble)—I flatter myself that what I say is generally true.

Mr. Cross-grain—Yes Maria, you have said a few true things. When we were engaged, for instance, you said that you couldn't imagine what I saw in you to love. Hi, there, help! Don't tear all my hair out!

"I observe that those Twistem girls are very lofty in their manner—quite stuck up—since they have got into society." "Well, that's all right and perfectly natural." "How so?" "Old man made his fortune in the mucilage business, you know."

DILLON DISGUISED A CORPSE.

A North Carolina Man's Horrid Scheme to Defraud an Insurance Company.

Twelve months ago James Dillon, a well-known citizen of Tyrrell county, insured his life for $3,000 in the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company. Some time ago he fell from a boat, feigned inability to swim, and had to be pulled out of the Alligator river to prevent his drowning. The next day he overturned his boat half a mile from shore, and yelled loudly for help to a man a quarter of a mile away. When the man responded Dillon secretly swam ashore, and could not be seen. The man whose assistance he had asked supposed he was drowned, and was perfectly willing to swear to it.

Notice of Dillon's death was sent to the company. It refused to pay the insurance. Action was brought by Dillon's wife, and the case stood for trial at the court last week, the widow alleging that he was drowned. Ten days ago a body was found near the place where he had been seen to sink in the water. The body was identified by twenty-five people as that of Dillon.

At court, counsel for the wife took a non-suit because the body had been found. Evidence of death and the identification was forwarded to the company, who wrote that they would do as advised by their attorneys in the county. There is no doubt that the company would have paid the money, but last Friday, to the surprise of every one, Dillon himself returned safe and sound to Columbia. Hearing of the non-suit, he thought it put an end to his claim, and that there was no hope of collecting the money, and so he returned home.

His statement is most remarkable. He says he swam ashore the day he overturned the boat, put his hat in it, and left the boat half full of water. He determined to hide in the woods so that his wife could get the insurance money. He kept in the great swamps for five months, when he found the body of a drowned man floating in the Alligator river. He removed the hair from the head so as to make it bald, and taking his own hair and whiskers put them in the decomposed flesh of the corpse. He knocked out 2 of the front teeth of the dead man, and removing the clothing from the corpse dressed it in the clothes he had worn the day of his disappearance.

At night he conveyed the body to the place where he was supposed to have been drowned.

It is one of the most desolate and barren wastes in the low-lands of Eastern North Carolina, seven miles from any habitation.

News of his return created much excitement, and talk of lynching and tar and feathers was freely indulged in.

Great is New York.

N. Y. Herald.]

There is nothing in the world so fascinating, ponderous, eloquent, dry and altogether delightful as a table of statistics.

Let us give you a few figures which stir the imagination, excite the general pride and make our admiration for this great metropolis—New York—blaze like a cannel coal fire.

We have about 1,700,000 inhabitants, including the sachems of Tammany, the quarrelling County Democrats and a small minority of Republicans, all grumbling in chorus about our dirty streets.

We owe a little matter of $134,301,215.42. We can pay the forty-two cents whenever called for, but the rest we shall probably leave to our children with our blessing. It is a great advantage to have posterity to look to. We shall not have much else to leave it, so take a peculiar pleasure in according it the gracious privilege of paying our debts. By the time they begin to express their gratitude in a few appropriate remarks we shall be "where the woodbine twineth."

The interest on this sum, paid with an annual growl, is pretty nearly $7,000,000.

The total amount which has to be raised by taxation, and which is expended in keeping the municipality abreast with the Christian civilization of the century, is about $34,000,000. This sum is handled by gentlemen who obtain their positions by political influences, but who would scorn—or words to that effect—to use a single penny for party purposes, or drop it unseen and unaccounted for into the wrong pocket.

Our taxable wealth treads on the heels of $2,000,000,000, which shows that some of our citizens carry financial umbrellas for a rainy day. The communist smacks his lips over these figures, and thinks it about time to make a general "divvy," but the day has not yet been fixed.

The city has clear title to a good bit of property, owns parks, piers, public buildings, which, if we were hard up, could be sold for more than $300,000,000 under the hammer, and at private sale for a round hundred millions more.

We are therefore perfectly solvent as a municipality, and can afford to indulge in all of the comforts and some of the luxuries of life.

These figures show that New York is in the centre of creation, and that all other cities, however boastful of their excellence, are merely subberbs.

"Best" Novels.

In the May number of the Book Buyer, Rossiter Johnson, in answer to a correspondent, gives the following list of "best" novels, but wishes a "perhaps" understood with each reply: The best sensational novel is Collins' "The Woman in White;" the best historical novel is Scott's "Kenilworth;" the best dramatic novel is Bronte's "Jane Eyre;" the best marine novel is Cooper's "Red Rover;" the best country-life novel is Blackmore's "Lorna Doone;" the best military novel is Lever's "Charles O'Malley;" the best religious novel is Kingley's "Hypatia;" the best sporting novel is Whyte Melville's "Digby Grand;" the best political novel is Disraeli's "Coningsby;" the best novel written for a purpose is Stowe's "Uncle Tom's Cabin;" the best imaginative novel is Hawthorne's "Marble Faun;" the best pathetic novel is George Eliot's "Silas Marner;" the best humorous novel is Dickens' "Pickwick;" the best Scotch novel is Scott's "Rob Roy;" the best English novel is George Eliot's "Adam Bede;" the best American novel is Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter;" and the best novel of all is Thackeray's "Henry Esmond." It should be said that Mr. Johnson considered only those novels that were written in the English language.

Division Line Between Eastern and Western N. C. Conferences.

We learn from Rev. F. L. Reid, editor of the Raleigh Christian Advocate, that the division line agreed upon by the General Conference for the two North Carolina Conferences begins at the Virginia line, runs south on the eastern boundary lines of Rockingham, Guilford and Randolph counties, thence west along the southern Randolph line to the Yadkin river, down that to the South Carolina line. All west of this line to Tennessee is the Western N. C. Conference; all east to the Chowan river is the Eastern N. C. Conference.

Be afraid of nothing but of doing wrong.

Saved by a Proof-Reader.

New York Times.]

In a certain Western newspaper office the gentleman whose business it is to record the fluctuations of the live stock market sits across from the young man to whose lot it falls to report wedding ceremonies. Both are graphic writers, and enjoy the latitude of expression of Western journalism. Both use the same kind of paper, and their penmanship is not unlike.

Not long ago the wedding reporter was suddenly called out of the office, and left in the middle of the table several sheets of paper on which was a description of a fashionable wedding. These sheets were gathered up by the live-stock writer when he finished his report, and the two stories became mixed. This is what the zealous care of a proof-reader, later in the evening, saved from reaching the public eye:

"The church was elaborately decorated with holly and evergreen, and the altar was bidden in a wealth of flowers. Out of the recesses rose rare tropical plants, and from the ceiling hung fifteen Western veals, which at this time of year are very scarce and correspondingly dear at 6@6½ cents a pound. There was also an active demand for choice lambs, and farmers east of the Mississippi river can profitably turn to sheep raising and take the bride, who wore a gown of white corded silk, a creation of Worth's, with pearl ornaments.

"Then came the maid of honor, the cousin of the bride, Miss Henrietta Blower, of Chicago, wearing a dress of white tulle with diamond ornaments, and was followed by a small bunch of Montana sheep, which bleated most piteously as they were driven on board and shipped to the winter hotels in Bermuda. They will there be cut in train and slightly decolletee, and after the rest of the party had reached the rail the minister turned and said impressively, 'I cannot bid more than 6½ cents for State veals, but cablegrams from London quote refrigerated beef at a price that will enable me to pay $4.90 for a car of choice Indiana beeves,' and hearing this there was a rush for the young married couple and the bride fell into the arms of her father, who is known to bear a striking resemblance to—a Connecticut ox weighing 1,875 pounds. The market here took an upward turn, and the guests, who numbered about two hundred, were served with a sumptuous dinner at the house of the bride."

The Roof of the World.

At a recent meeting of the Paris Geographical Society, Dr. William Capus, who has been the fellow-traveler of MM. Bonvalot and Pepin in their Central Asian tours, gave an interesting account of the Pamir, or "the roof of the world." In the course of the lecture he described an incident which occurred to the French travelers in Chitral. He said:

"After the Afghans at Sarhad had endeavored in vain to detain us, partly by persuasion and partly by force, we crossed the Hindoo Koosh by the Baroghil Pass, which is only 10,800 feet high. Without guides, pack-horse, and almost without food, we reached the Fort of Mastuj, where the Chitralis opposed our going further in the direction of India. While Bonvalot remained at Mastuj I went with Pepin to Chitral, the capital of the country, situated three or four days' march to the southwest. The King of Mehtar, named Amman ul Mulk, made us prisoners the very moment we entered his town, and he thus explained his action: 'You wear Russian boots, Russian money, you speak Russian with your servant, and you come from Russian territory—you must be Russian spies.' And he caused us to be closely watched, stopped our correspondence and sent for instructions to Lord Dufferin, for the English make use of this chief as a sentinel in the direction of the Pamir.

"During the long days of our encarceration, when we could only walk on the grass in front of our tent under the eyes of our guard, we saw the king pass daily to take part in the much-loved game of polo, accompanied by a grotesque cavalcade, and placed in the midst of his courtiers, who surrounded his horse, and whose heads he made use of to support himself, as we do a cane. The king has thirty wives and sixty children. He is sixty-five years old. I acquired a great medical reputation by extracting a wasp from a boy's ear, and the king sent to consult me about his favorite wife. She had broken her leg, but the king would not let me see it, asserting that I, the European tahib, or doctor, had powders that cured everything. To give him pleasure, if not his wife, I gave him some quinine and mercurial ointment."

Dreams Are Curious Things.

Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Mr. J. D. Young, the well-known insurance agent, had a dream Friday night, which caused him to awaken and arouse his wife. It was that he saw a wagon coming along with two bodies in it, and in lifting one of the men out, as he was turned over, he appeared to be dead. Then two men appeared at the head of the corpse, who appeared to be Italians, and were arguing as to whose knife it was that fitted the wound, which was on the right side. Then he heard the dead man's name. It was Mark Taylor, and, as he knew no one by that name, he asked in his dream, "Who is he?" and the reply came loud and distinct, "Why, he's the coachman of John Henry." When Mr. Young came to his office yesterday morning he asked Mr. Henry, who had an office with him, the name of his coachman. Henry replied:

"We have a new man," and Mr. Henry gave a different name than Taylor.

"He was cut last night," said Mr. Young.

"Yes," replied Henry, "but how did you find it out? It was not published in the papers."

Young replied: "I dreamed it, and that's all I know about it."

Now both Mr. Henry and Mr. Young are puzzled about the coincidence.

Bismark's Wonderful Self-Control.

The Brooklyn Eagle calls attention to Prince Bismarck's enormous capacity for eating, drinking and smoking. For sixty-five years he is said to have eaten, smoked and drank more than any other man in the world. When particularly annoyed with a press of business, he would consume six quarts of Rhine wine in an afternoon, and be thirsty and sober at supper. In view of his great capacity for the enjoyments of appetite, it seems almost incredible that the Iron Chancellor should have had perfect control over himself. In order to reduce his weight, he stopped suddenly and entirely the drinking of liquids. In the same way he quit smoking. When told that the trembling of his hand was due to the excessive use of tobacco, he instantly laid aside his pipe, and did not touch it again for sixteen months. At the end of that time, observing that his hand trembled as much as ever, he again resumed smoking.

THE FIFE MEETINGS.

The meetings conducted by Mr. W. P. Fife continued through last week, with a gradually increasing attendance (except where interrupted by inclement weather) until Sunday night, which had been designated to close the exercises. At that time not less than 2,500 persons occupied the immense Tabernacle, and from this vast audience 106 responded to the invitation extended, and intimated their desire for prayers in their behalf by advancing to the rostrum.

At the conclusion of the services Rev. C. W. Byrd, pastor of the Hay Street Methodist Church, spoke very feelingly and impressively. He declared that, in the face of the deep interest which seemed still to move many of the people assembled before him, he, for one, would not dare, as a minister and a christian, to give his assent to bringing the meetings to a close. He exhorted his own congregation—he appealed to all believers—to bury all difference, to forget all objections, to stifle all opposition, and to rally unitedly in support of this great work. He was followed to the same effect by Rev. T. P. Barclay, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, in eloquent words. It was then announced that there would be, as usual, morning session at 10:30 o'clock on Monday and at 8:30 in the evening.

One of the most impressive discourses delivered by Mr. Fife during the week was that of Thursday night: "Thou art weighed in the balance and found wanting"—with much force and artistic grouping of the different heads of his subject successively contrasting the condition of the worldly moral man out of Christ, the sceptic or infidel, the average church member, and the self-confessed sinner. His address on Sunday night also gave unqualified gratification to his audience, before commencing which, with characteristic candor, he retracted a charge which he made on Saturday against Tokay Vineyard:—that wine was there sold on Sunday to young men and women—stating that he had been informed by those entitled to credence that this was untrue, and he wished to do injustice to neither the proprietor of Tokay Vineyard nor its manager.

During the services on Monday morning Mr. Fife paid a gracious tribute to the late E. T. McKethan, the good works of whose daily life had so endeared him to the people of this community, moving to its very depths the heart—so often overcast of late years by the shadow of great sorrow—of his venerated mother, who was of the congregation.

An intense nervous headache rendered Mr. Fife physically unable to address the large concourse of people assembled on Monday night, and at his request Rev. T. P. Barclay delivered a most admirable sermon from the text: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock," etc. The closing services were solemn and impressive. In his full, rich voice Mr. Fife read with much feeling and impressement a beautiful hymn of farewell to the friends gathered about him; and, closing the book, dismissed them with a prayer of wonderful fervor and power—breathing the spirit of love, of peace, of charity and of good-will. It was an eloquent, thrilling, matchless invocation to the Most High.

When Mr. Fife opened the first of the Fayetteville meetings a few days ago he just there entered upon the great ordeal of his evangelistic life. He has borne it with pluck and manliness, and we honor him for it. We are not in sympathy with his methods of conducting his work (this in justice to ourselves, and with the kindliest of feeling toward the evangelist), but we do thoroughly admire his courage, and believe entirely in his christian sincerity and self-consecration.

He who supposes that the "Drummer Evangelist" blunders up on the platform, and "turns himslf loose" under the dominion of impulse, utterly misunderstands the man. Though not formal, he is very methodical and systematic, evidently carefully mapping his way and counting his steps. He never for a moment divests his religion of its personality—the relation of the creature to the Creator—and with him the believer is not only a witness but he is a speaking witness; he is not only a speaking witness but he is one crying out daily as Christ's herald on earth.

Mr. Fife has exceptional capacity, great natural gifts and a voice of remarkable compass and flexibility, and careful study and judicious training will make him a very strong pulpit orator.

"THE SOUTHERN VASSAR."

The Salem and Winston papers delight to bestow the above title on Salem Female Academy—complimentary, perhaps, but certainly not doing it more than scant justice. Not as pretentious or progressive, perhaps not even as thorough and extensive in its scholastic curriculum, as the great institution on the banks of the Hudson, the Salem Female Academy turns out a better and a higher type of womanhood; and bright is every page of its history from the time when, eighty years ago, the old Moravian priest planted the germ of its existence down to this day of its splendid success, with the names of more than 10,000 alumnæ inscribed upon its records.

We wish we could devote the space to a complete report of last week's commencement exercises, which were more than usually entertaining—their interest enhanced by the eloquent Baccalaureate sermon of Rev. C. W. Byrd, the masterly oration of Hon. G. W. Sanderlin, the extraordinary convocation by her grateful daughters around the venerable mother's board at the love-feast of the alumnæ, and the artistic rendering of the best music that has been heard in the State in many years.

A broad philosophy and a keen appreciation of the needs of the day dictate the educational system of Salem Female Academy—a recognition of the fact that a finished woman must be no more a grub than a butterfly; hence while the ground work is solid the polish of the workmanship is seen throughout. Thoughtful parents will readily recognize the excellence of this great school, but only a careful examination of its modes of physical, intellectual, social and moral training will give adequate conception of all its merit.

The piece de resistance of the concert of Wednesday night, 4th inst., was the Requiem of Mozart (the last work of his life, and, in fact, rendered for the first time over his own grave)—a performance in which more than 150 voices were blended, and pronounced by connoisseurs exceptionally fine choral music.

NOT READY.

"It has been announced that there are to be two prize fights in Virginia, in both of which JOHN L. SULLIVAN is to take part, but the Richmond Dispatch says: 'The Virginia law against the brutal so-called sport of prize fighting will not be violated with impunity if the courts of the old Dominion know themselves, and we think they do.'" Prize-fighting is part of the civilization of the 19th century, and JOHN L. SULLIVAN is its high priest and apostle. We must grow a breed of men with more "sand in the craw" than the present generation before law-makers will be found bold enough to tackle the presiding deities of the "ring." It would require more pluck than that necessary to present and pass a bill for the protection of sheep husbandry.

Report of the Board of Education.

North Carolina, Cumberland County.

To the Boards of Justices and Commissioners:

In compliance with Section 2,590 of the School Law, the Board of Education respectfully reports that, in its opinion, the sum of fourteen thousand seven hundred dollars will be necessary to maintain one or more public schools in each school district of Cumberland county for a period of four months and to defray all educational expenses.

This Board believes that the educational affairs of the county are in as good condition as they ever have been. The teachers of the county have been carefully examined, and in the selection of them due regard has been paid to their moral as well as intellectual qualities. No complaint has been made against a teacher for immoral conduct, and as a class the teachers of the county are believed to be intelligent and conscientious. The County Superintendent and (in his absence) the Chairman have been especially careful not to endorse certificates from other counties.

During the month of November, 1889, an Institute for whites was held for one week, conducted by Prof. E. A. Alderman and the County Superintendent. This Institute was attended by 35 teachers in the public schools, irregularly by the 8 teachers of the Fayetteville Graded and Normal School, and by five private school teachers, four of whom have since obtained certificates. "State certificates" were issued to Mrs. S. P. Bryan and to Messrs. E. R. McKethan and D. P. McDonald. The Institute is believed to have been of great benefit to all who attended it, and the interest manifested by the teachers was great.

Owing to the small amount of the school fund, the Board has not felt justified in having the County Superintendent to visit the schools. The amount of script issued by the Board since June 1st, 1889, has been larger than usual for the following reasons: 1st, great care was exercised in electing suitable school committeemen for the entire county and notifying them; 2nd, the expense incurred in taking a thorough census; 3rd, the large number of petitions that were heard; 4th, because the fund was apportioned as recommended in the school law, i. e. two-thirds per capita and the remainder so as to equalize school facilities as nearly as possible; 5th, the expense of the Institute; 6th, because the Board has tried more thoroughly than ever before to organize the educational work of the county. The above causes have required a much larger share of the County Superintendent's time, and have necessitated more frequent meetings of the Board and more work from its individual members, besides a greater outlay in printing and postage. Much of this additional expense was rendered necessary by amendments to the school law in 1889. The Board has economized in salaries as much as is consistent with good teaching, and has required the plans and prices of school houses to be submitted to and approved by it, so as to prevent extravagance and to have comfortable houses.

We desire to call your attention to the fact that, on August 1st, 1887, the bondsmen of ex-Sheriff R. W. Hardie paid to the Board of County Commissioners the sum of nineteen hundred and eighty-eight dollars and sixty-six cents in settlement, on account of the school fund, and the Treasurer reports that no part of this money has ever been paid over to him for school purposes. The school interests of the county require this money, and this Board now asks that it be paid over to the Treasurer for school purposes as speedily as possible.

The number of children of school age in the county is 10,826. To 10,791 $10,098.74 was apportioned, based upon an estimate. Herewith we submit an itemized report of all script issued by this Board since June 1st, 1889.

All of which is respectfully submitted by order of the Board.

Mrs. Geo. Haigh, Miss Sue and Mr. Dan Huske are visiting Mrs. C. W. Huske. Miss Katie Elliott is spending a few weeks with Mr. J. Elliott and family. Miss Lutie Murchison was welcomed home last week.

Mr. and Mrs M. McD. Williams, looking luxurious in their elegant carriage, driving two handsome horses, were down here last Sunday.

Watson Fairley and James McDiarmid are home again, looking handsomer than ever.

Miss Janie McDiarmid came home last week from Faison, where she has been attending school. She is a lovely and lovable girl..

We attended the "Fife meetings," and enjoyed them very much.

Mr. F. W. Thornton, accompanied by Mr. Cotton, of Hope Mills, came out last Friday, but the factory will not run until September; can't get ready. Mr. Steinhilper is on a trip to New Berne this week. The new water-wheel facilitates planing and sawing. Gardens are fine and people healthy.

Messrs. McDiarmid Bros. have rented Mr. Huske's saw-mill, which means the loss of pleasant neighbors but the continuance of a successful enterprise. Mr. John Williams came out Wednesday, and dined at Mrs. Fairley's.

BON AMI.

SOLDIERS' HOME.

To the Confederate Veteran's Associations in the Various Counties of North Carolina.

COMRADES: We desire to call your attention to the provisions of our constitution directing that the annual elections for officers shall take place on the fourth day of July in each year. We earnestly hope that there will be a large attendance of veterans at the court-house (unless some other place of assembling shall be designated) in each county at 12 o'clock on that day, and the regular organization continued and strengthened. If the meeting shall have been arranged for another day, or shall not be held on the 4th of July, it is not material, provided the veterans shall surely be called together at some time.

The executive committee have determined to wait no longer for adequate subscriptions, but bodly to assume the responsibility of opening a Soldiers' Home for the care of such of our needy, deserving comrades as require to be supported by charity. At present it is probable that the hotel building at Ridgeway, donated by Col. Heck, will be too large for our immediate purposes, and we may begin in a smaller way at Raleigh or some accessible locality.

For the support of this Home, we throw ourselves upon the abounding charity of the people of North Carolina, and we appeal particularly to the members of the Confederate Veterans' Association to see that a proper interest is enkindled in every town and township in the State.

We especially invoke the aid of the women of North Carolina, foremost in every work of love and kindness, and we ask that the Veterans' Associations of each and every county constitute a central committee of ladies of not less than five in every county town in the State. The names of the members of this committee, particularly the chairman, should be forwarded at once to W. C. Stronach, Secretary, Raleigh, N. C., who will correspond with the committees concerning the methods of raising funds for the support of the Home.

J. S. CARR,
President.

W. C. STRONACH, Sec'y.

Early Hits Himself for One.

Sanford Express.]

True and brave old Gen. Early delivered a hard saying in his brief speech before the annual meeting in Richmond of the Association of the Army of Northern Virginia, the other day. He said:

"We would not honor Gen. Lee in unveiling the monument to his memory, but we would show that we were worthy to follow him. The man who deserted during the fighting has more of my respect than the man who deserted after the war. The man who deserted during the war took his life in his own hands, for if he had been caught he would have been shot. Frequently, too, he was induced to desert by the news that his wife and children were starving. But the man who deserted since the war did so for pelf."

Somebody got hit. Who could it be? —Wilmington Messenger.

Early is one of the two Generals who have lent their names and influence to the Louisiana State Lottery, and, while he has not deserted the cause of the Southern people, he has encouraged the growth of an institution that has robbed them in their poverty of millions. As brave as he was during the war, he has not shown high moral courage since. He has sold the influence he so worthily gained on a hundred battle-fields for the pelf of the poor and unfortunate. In this speech he has unconsciously rebuked himself.

ROYAL GERMETUER

The following is an extract from a letter written by the World Renowned Evangelist:

"I returned from Tyler, Texas, on the 12th inst. I find my wife has been taking Royal Germetuer to the GREAT UPBUILDING of her physical system. She is now almost free from the distressing headaches with which she has been a MARTYR for twenty years. Surely it has done wonders for her! I WISH EVERY POOR SUFFERING WIFE HAD ACCESS TO THAT MEDICINE.

Rev. J. B. Hawthorne, Pastor First Baptist church, Atlanta, Ga., was cured of a long standing case of Catarrh. His wife had been an invalid from nervous headache, neuralgia, and rheumatism FOR THIRTY YEARS, scarcely having a day's exemption from pain. After taking Royal Germetuer two months, he writes: "A more complete transformation I have never witnessed. EVERY SYMPTOM OF DISEASE HAS DISAPPEARED. She appears to be twenty years younger, and is as happy and playful as a healthy child. We have persuaded many of our friends to take the medicine, and the testimony of all of them is that it is a great remedy."

Dr. King's Royal Germetuer is a boon to women. It builds up the strength, increases the appetite, aids digestion, relieves them of the cause of disease, and insures health.

It is an infallible cure for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Insomnia, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Palpitation, Liver, Kidney and Urinary Diseases, Chills and Fevers, Catarrh, all Blood and Skin Diseases, Female Troubles, etc.

Prompted by a desire to reach more suffering people, the price has been reduced from $2.50 to $1.50 per concentrated bottle, which makes one gallon of medicine as per directions, according each bottle. For sale by druggists. ATLANTIC GERMETUER CO. Atlanta Ga. and by Druggists. If your Druggist can not supply you, it can be sent by express.

☞ Send stamp for full particulars, certificates of wonderful cures, etc.

STANDARD TEST FOR EYESIGHT

These Test Types for determining the Acuteness of Vision were selected by GEORGE COWELL, F.R.C.S.,
Surgeon to the Westminster and Royal Westminster Ophthalmic Hospitals, etc., etc.

Persons desiring to know whether THEY SHOULD OR SHOULD NOT wear glasses, or whether their glasses suit their eyes, CAN FIND OUT FOR THEMSELVES by a careful use of the following tests.

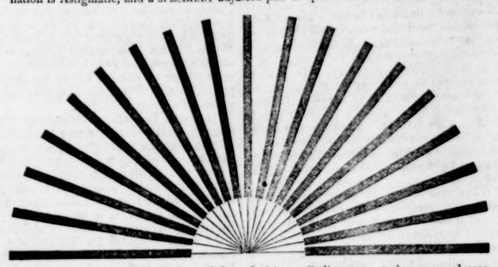
STANDARD TEST FOR FAR SIGHT.

Spell the following letters when placed in a good light, and at a distance of 16 feet from the eye, each eye to be tried separately:

s n u o a v r e

STANDARD TEST FOR ASTIGMATISM.

At a distance of 12 to 16 feet, ALL the lines of the fan should appear equally black. If some are more vividly black than others, or if some are rather hazy, the eye under examination is Astigmatic, and a SPECIALLY adjusted pair of spectacles is absolutely necessary.



Astigmatism is a very common defect of vision. Ordinary spectacles or eyeglasses, bought in a haphazard way (without undergoing a thorough examination), are worse than useless, and tend only to aggravate the defect. By our method of testing, the slightest defect of vision is at once detected, and by specially prepared glasses the most difficult cases are successfully treated. When headache and neuralgia proceed (as it often does) from a latent defect of vision, our method of testing will at once discover it, and by properly adjusted and specially prepared glasses will give immediate relief.

The cut below shows how the fan appears to an eye Astigmatic to Vertical Lines.

STANDARD TEST FOR NEAR SIGHT.

(Not applicable to persons under 20 years of age.)

Read the following paragraph when placed in a good light, at a distance of 12 inches from the eye, each eye to be tried separately:

The eye is one of the most delicate and wonderful organs of the human system. Great care should be taken not only to preserve the sight, but to endeavor to regain what has been already lost by overwork, improper glasses, &c., &c. The only way to accomplish this is to wear suitable glasses, properly fitted to the eyes. In every case where the glasses are not correctly fitted, the eyes are more or less injured. We make a special study of Eyesight Testing in all its branches, and can assure a perfect correction wherever a defect of vision exists.

Cut this out, and test your eyes. I will be in Fayetteville on or about Monday, June 16th. Will examine all eyes free. I do my work upon a guarantee of fit. I use only first-class lenses. Parties wishing work in my line are requested to call early; some eyes are difficult to fit and require often several days. Will take no case that I will not have enough time to fit perfectly before leaving. I am known to the medical profession of Fayetteville.

At Fremont.

Hon. W. J. Green delivered the annual address at the closing exercises of the Hand High School at Fremont last Thursday, 5th inst. It is spoken of as an able, masterly effort.

Large Crowds.

Two colored excursion trains left here for Wilmington last Thursday morning—one by the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway and the other by the Atlantic Coast Line R. R.—carrying in the aggregate from 800 to 1,000 people.

The Singer.

Mr. W. M. Dodd has established his headquarters for the sale of the well-known Singer sewing-machines in the E. L. Pemberton building on Hay Street, where he has fitted up a neat and convenient office. The second floor is occupied by the Garment Fitting Company.

County Executive Committee.

We call especial attention to Mr. H. L. Cook's call for a meeting of the County Democratic Executive Committee on Monday, 16th inst. It is the initiatory step, and one of the most important steps, in preparing for and formulating the approaching campaign.

Murphy (Gigantic).

Mr. D. McD. Grady has our acknowledgments for a waiter of Irish potatoes which, with very little more weight and circumference, would rightly be classed as "some pumpkins." They are by odds the finest we have seen this season, and show careful and skillful gardening.

State Executive Committee.

At Tuesday's meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee, Mr. Ed. C. Smith was elected chairman in place of of Judge Whitaker, resigned. Raleigh was selected as the place and Wednesday, August 20th, as the time for holding the State Convention. Resolutions were adopted upon the death of W. J. Yates and Dr. W. T. Bunett.

School Addresses.

Mr. H. W. Blount, the eloquent editor of the Wilson Mirror, passed down to Lumber Bridge yesterday to deliver the annual address before the High School, and the patrons of that institution may prepare themselves for the enjoyment of a brilliant literary effort.

At the same time Hon. Geo. M. Rose, of this city, will deliver a scholarly address at Bennettsville.

The Club Meeting.

The "Atheræum Club" will hold its regular weekly meeting this evening at 9 o'clock, the executive committee having selected Messrs Arch. McDuffie, Andrew Broadfoot and E. H. McKethan to contribute to the entertainment of the club by selections, declamation, etc. The routine business of this meeting will be of importance, and a full attendance of the members is earnestly desired.

Promotion Well-Merited.

The friends of Mrs. Fannie Utley, a native of Fayetteville and now in the Treasury Department in Washington City, will congratulate her very heartily on her recent promotion to a position of increased honor, emolument and responsibility. We have long known that her capacity was rated very high by the officials of her department, and in her last rigorous examination she dislayed extraordinary fitness and proficiency.

The Charlotte Festival.

The State Music Festival to take place in Charlotte to-morrow and the day following will be the most pretentious and important assemblage of the character which has ever convened in North Carolina, both in the elaborateness of the programme of entertainment and in the general interest which has been everywhere enlisted in its success. Unquestionably a great deal of good professional and amateur musical talent, and some of a high order, has been brought to a particpation in this festival, and we shall anxiously hope that the practice, preparation and execution of the score will do justice to this talent. Fayetteville will be represented by Mr. H. R. Novitzky, whose training and culture is that of the best school of the art, bestowed upon a voice which is well worth it all.

"Tenting To-Night, Boys."

The world-wide circulation of the OBSERVER renders it a question of the merest accident where one of its brilliant, coruscant, scintillant copies may make its way; and, while Sandy McMillan in Quwhiffle is poring over the crop reports, the "heathen Chinee," hundreds of miles away, may be diving into its meaty columns—and leaving out all the rs.

But we will do our best to keep ourselves away from Col. Elliott F. Shepard, of the New York Mail and Express, this week, anyhow, for we are called upon to record a portentous and mysterious gathering of the rebel clans in our midst. Col. J. B. Starr, a gallant Confederate officer, has gone into camp with his followers at McDougald & McArtan's pond, and, worst of all, he has beguiled into this overt act of treason Gen. A. G. Brady, of Federal army fame, and the "stars and bars" and "stars and stripes" flap in unison as the balsam-laden breezes sweep out from their forest coverts, and vex the glassy surface of that beautiful sheet of water, while from its pellucid depths the trout "breaks" in a crest of foam, and bares his glistening body to the sun.

Tuesday, the 10th inst., the 29th anniversary of the Battle of Bethel was very pleasantly observed by many survivors of that brilliant engagagement of the first Peninsular campaign, the pleasures of the day being enjoyed by Col. J. B. Starr, Capt. J. B. Smith, Col. Jno. A. Pemberton, Gen. A. G. Brady, M. Faulk, W. P. Wemyss, Hon. Wharton J. Green, George Brandt Jas. Evans and others resident in town and county, while we were especially glad to see as visitors Gen. W. G. Lewis, of Goldsboro, one of the best soldiers of the Southern armies; Col. F. W. Kerchner, of Wilmington, the "prince of good fellows," and his brother, Mr. F. A. Kerchner.

Several will remain in camp for several days—"the world forgetting, by the world forgot"—drinking pure spring water (strictly pure spring water), and catching fish (and cold).

These reunions and "outings" are very pleasant; they are recreations, with the blessed elements of repose and rest therein

Troy—Wyche.

The many friends in this community of Miss Etta May Troy had received the announcement of her approaching marriage with the warmest wishes for her future happiness, and the solemnization of the ceremony is thus happily described by the Asheville Citizen of the 5th inst.:

Miss Etta May Troy, of this city, daughter of ex-State Senator W. C. Troy, and Mr. H. A. Wyche, station-agent at Waynesville, were married at the Central Methodist Church at 11 o'clock this morning. The church was handsomely decorated with wild flowers and evergreen. Mr. W. A. Winburn acted as best man, and Miss Ella Troy, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The bride was attired in gray striped cashmere traveling dress, trimmed with plush and silver buttons. She bore a bouquet of heliotrope, pond lilies and white roses. The maid of honor wore a heliotrope-colored dress trimmed with white satin, and carried a bouquet of heliotrope, lilies and colored roses.

The bride entered the church with her father, walking up the left aisle to the pulpit, where she was joined by the groom and best man, who entered from the right aisle. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. F. Tillett, of Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn. Messrs. F. A. Sondley, H. M. Roberts, W. H. Hardin and R. P. Foster acted as ushers.

After the ceremony, which was witnessed by a large number of the friends of the couple, the party partook of luncheon at the residence of the bride's father, and left on the 2:07 train for Raleigh and Fayetteville to visit friends. They will be absent two weeks, and will return to Waynesville to live.

Good Words at Home and Abroad.

A distinguished citizen and leading Democrat of an adjoining Congressional district writes a private letter to Hon. W. J. Green, from which we are permitted to make the following forcible extract:

Last evening I saw in one of my newspapers—the Sanford Express, I believe—a copy of your card which was published several years ago. I had never before known the facts as you publish them; in truth, the contest being out of my Congressional district, I knew nothing about it. The adoption of the two-thirds rule is un-Democratic, and the use to which it was placed in this instance—to your detriment—was an outrage, which will in the course of time recoil on those who planned it. The day of retribution generally "overtakes" rascality.

Tidings of good cheer come from Moore county, voiced through the columns of the Carthage Blade:

It will be good news to the friends and admirers of Hon. W. J. Green elsewhere to learn that his chances in Moore county are daily growing better. He is closely identified with the farmers, and has ever been their staunch friend; he has been an active member of the Farmers' Alliance since its organization in this State. He should and, we think, will receive a hearty support in Moore county. He would make the 3rd district a brilliant Congressman. In point of honesty and ability he is equaled by few and surpassed by none.

Memorial Service.

Rev. W. B. Oliver will preach a sermon to the Odd Fellows in the first Baptist Church next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It will be of the nature of a memorial service—honoring the memory of the dead—in accordance with a resolution passed at the last convention of the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows of North Carolina. We are very safe in promising the Fayetteville people an able discourse on that occasion. Mr. Oliver's sermon of last Sunday night is spoken of as a masterly effort, and we are glad to know that, by the request of many of his friends and admirers, he may be induced to deliver it again at an early day.

The Odd Fellows are requested to meet at their lodge-room at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

One of Its Beneficent Results.

The Sanford Express of the 7th inst. very truly and forcibly says:

It is a real pleasure to see the Wilmington drummers driving the Richmond drummers out of this territory. Fewer Richmond and more Wilmington drummers come to this section than even a year ago. The influence of the C. F. & Y. V. Railroad is being felt for the pride and glory of the State, and if the Wilmington merchants will assist that influence by advertising their goods in the newspapers of this section they can soon have the trade of Piedmont North Carolina.

In Memoriam.

The following lines, written on the first anniversary of her death, and dedicated lovingly to Bessie Whitford Fife, were received too late for publication last week:

Over the river they beckon to me—
Loved ones who have crossed to the further side;
The gleam of their snowy robes I see,
But their voices are drowned in the rushing tide.
There is one with ringlets of sunny gold,
And eyes the reflection of heaven's own blue:
She crossed in the noontime grey and cold,
And the pale mists hid her from mortal view.
We saw not the angels who met her there,
The gates of the city we could not see—
Over the river, over the river,
My darling stands waiting to welcome me.

Over the river the boatman pale
Carried Bessie, the household pet,
Her gold curls waved in the gentle gale—
Darling daughter, I see her yet.
She crossed on her bosom her dimpled hands,
And fearlessly entered the phantom bark;
We watched her glide from the silver sands,
And all our sunshine grew strangely dark.
We know she is safe on the further side,
Where all the ransomed and angels be;
Over the river, the mystic river,
My childhood's idol is wating for me.

And I sit and think when the sunset's gold
Is flushing river and hill and shore,
I shall one day stand by the water cold,
And list for the sound of the boatman's oar;
I shall watch for the gleam of the flapping sail;
I shall hear the boat as it gains the strand;
I shall pass from sight with the boatman pale,
To the better shore of the spirit land.
I shall know the loved who have gone before,
And joyfully sweet will the meeting be,
When over the river, the peaceful river,
The angel of death shall carry me.

Now my heart is something lighter,
Since my grief I've tried to tell;
Now I go to earth's stern duties—
My angel child, farewell.

June 2nd. MAMA.

"North Carolina for North Carolinians."

"J. N. G.," sounding another note responsive of the "Voice from Harnett," writes to us very pertinently and sensibly as follows:

In your issue of May 29th "N. McK.," in his "Voice from Harnett," asks the question: Would not the State do well to establish a Bureau of Retention? In my opinion we need some legislation upon this important subject. Every year carries a larger number of our most promising young men away from us to seek their fortunes in other States or Territories, besides carrying with them a large portion of our best labor. I know of sections which, even before the Kansas and Arkansas exodus began, were entirely stripped of all their best laborers, who were carried to the turpentine forests of Georgia and Alabama. Both these States have a Bureau of Retention, and it is a fine of $200 and imprisonment for 12 months to carry labor out of the State. In 1887-'88 I was engaged in transporting labor to Birmingham, Ala., for railroad work, and both in Georgia and Mississippi I was fined for even trying to induce laborers to leave the State; and last year I saw in Wilmington and elsewhere open meetings where the agents for the exodus would get up and make speeches, and with the biggest of lies paint to their ignorant hearers a land fairer than Eden. I have seen hundreds leave the depots at one time unmolested, leaving their farm contracts behind and the land to be uncultivated. And another thing: No one can form any idea of the number of white farmers that are leaving North Carolina and going West unless he would go to Asheville or some point on the W. N. C. R. R. during the winter, and see every train carrying off some of the best farmers of western and central North Carolina. I am not statesman enough to know what ought to be done, but I know something ought to be done.

Col. Thomas S. Kenan, of Raleigh, pledged himself to give as liberally as he could. John S. Hill, of the class of '89, pledged his class to give $200. Others will contribute.

Sunday School Meeting.

The Cedar Creek Baptist Sunday School Association will convene in its first annual session Friday, June 20th, 1890, at 11 A. M. The annual sermon on Friday will be preached by Rev. Wm. Brunt.

The sessions will continue through three days, and, in addition to reports from schools and interesting routine business, live topics will be discussed each day.

Sunday morning there will be a "model Sunday school" presided over by Mr. N. B. Broughton, an eminent worker in this department of christian labor—Sunday afternoon a mass meeting in the interest of the Sunday school work. Drs. Pritchard, Bailey and Harrell, Revs. Messrs. Durham and Brown, Mr. Broughton and other prominent workers are expected. The meetings will be held in the First Baptist Church of this city. This is a denominational movement, but all christians interested in this work are cordially invited to attend the meetings.

Ladies' Memorial Association.

An interesting meeting of the officers and members of the Ladies' Memorial Association was held on Friday morning last, at the residence of Mrs. T. M. Hunter, at which the following were elected for the ensuing year:

President—Mrs. N. A. Sinclair.
Vice-President—Mrs. A. S. Huske.
Secretary and Treasurer—H. McD. Robinson.
Executive Committee—Mrs. R. W. Bidgood, Chairman; Mrs. N. B. Alexander, Mrs. John B. Broadfoot, Mrs. Frank Beasley, Mrs. John A. Pemberton, Jr., Mrs. Jno. Worth, Mrs. T. S. Whitted, Miss Annie Lee Rose.

An Interesting Publication.

We have somewhat carefully and closely examined a map, just issued by the Fayetteville Land Company (Messrs. John Underwood, Duncan Rose and others, incorporators), of this city and its environs. It bears the impress of accuracy and painstaking care, and, we think, may be relied on as correct. Every public building, square, railroad line and branch have their place, while much valuable information is given in the plotting of the new suburbs, with the streets laid out during the past few years. An interesting feature of the map is a profile sketch of a proposed belt-line to encircle the town—deflecting from the Atlantic Coast Line branch to Nimocks's roller mills about opposite the central avenue of the new cemetery, running along Greenameyer's mills in lower Fayetteville, passing through the old Campbellton market plaza, and connecting with the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway at the Junction. We commend the enterprise of the Fayetteville Land Company in this instance, and believe that every citizen and property-owner would find a copy of the map valuable and useful.

Notes from Duplin.

From the last letter of our entertaining Kenansville correspondent we take the following items:

On Friday evening a delightful entertainment was given to our pleasure-loving people by the "Warsaw Dramatic Club," whose reputation is getting to be quite enviable, and which deserves full houses and hearty applause wherever it goes. Mr. Ricaud and Mrs. Johnson are the managers, and the members are as follows: Misses Leila Moore, Frankie Hines, Nellie Johnson, Ella Brown, Maggie Bass; Dr. Kennedy and Messrs. David Kennedy, Thos. Ricaud, Bernice Moore, Henry Bowden, Wm. Bell, Adolphus Bell.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Williams, Prof. Shaw, Dr. Blount, Misses J. D. Blount, Leila and Rossie Williams and your correspondent joined the merry crowd assembled yesterday at Cooper's Mill to celebrate the closing exercises of Miss Patterson's school.

Prof. W. M. Shaw has resigned his position as principal of our high school, but will still be connected with it as advisory principal. The present assistant principal has been engaged to take charge of the school, and expects to begin work about the 1st of September.

The Excursion to Wilmington.

It was not our good fortune to share in last Tuesday's holiday, but all the participants express themselves pleased with the day's jaunt, their enjoyment only marred by the impossibility of handling so large a crowd after its landing in Wilmington. Both the Sylvan Grove and Passport were required to transport the visitors to Carolina Beach, and, owing to the late hour at which the second contingent reached their destination, their stay there was limited to a very short time.

It was one of the largest excursions of whites that ever left Fayetteville, the train pulling out about 600 persons from this depot, with the addition of nearly 100 between Fayetteville and Wilmington. It goes without saying that the crowd was decorous and orderly, and the day passed without accident.

The personnel was of the best—made up of our most refined people—and they were met by just as nice a lot of welcoming friends at Wilmington.

The Next Census.

The Twin-City Daily of Winston says:

Greensboro claims a population of 7,000; Raleigh, 16,000; Wilmington, 25,000; Charlotte, 13,000; High Point, 3,000; Concord, 3,500; Reidsville, 3,500; Asheville, 10,000; Durham, 8,000; Fayetteville, 5,000; New Berne, 8,000, and Winston-Salem, 14,000. But these are claims; let's see what the enumerators say.

So far as Fayetteville is concerned, you are badly "out," brother. If the census of 1890 does not show at least 8,000 people for this rapidly-growing city it will not be because the people are not here, but because the enumerators have gone about with their eyes shut, and have not faithfully performed their duties. New people are taking their place in this community every day; and, despite the new houses that are constructing all the time, there are no vacant dwellings—a tenant eagerly seizing upon each house as fast as it is built. Wilmington will not rest satisfied with 25,000; she is reaching for 28,000 or 30,000, and will get it, in our opinion.

The Spirit of Accommodation.

The Greensboro Daily Patriot of last Saturday has the following:

The officials of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroad have always shown a commendable and patriotic disposition to foster and encourage every enterprise established in Greensboro, and the offer of Capt. J. W. Fry, the General Manager, to put in a side-track for the Greensboro Cotton Mills free of charge is in keeping with the many other liberal acts of this company. And this same liberal spirit is shown in its dealings with every other town along the line. Is it any wonder that the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley and its officials are so near to the hearts of the people of this State?

That is just it. Controlling the most important system of internal improvement in the South, the officials of the road have not yet found that this great work of developing the State's material resources is at all retarded by permeating every department and detail of their great business with the spirit of kindness, courtesy and liberality.

A Treat in Store.

Rev. Dr. T. H. Pritchard will lecture in the Baptist Church on Thursday evening, June 19th. Subject will be announced by handbills.

It is unnecessary to speak of the ability of this distinguished divine to interest, instruct, amuse and benefit all who may be so fortunate as to hear him. His fame as a lecturer is second only to his well-known and admired power as a preacher. Let Fayetteville give him a large audience.

We All Know It—But It Will Bear Repeating.

The editor of the Jonesboro Leader, who knows whereof he speaks, has this to say after a recent visit to this city:

The traveling public are hereby informed (what the most of them already know) that the accommodations at the LaFayette Hotel, in Fayetteville, are not to be surpassed in the State. This is not a "reading notice," but a voluntary suggestion from one who has been there, and speaks from experience.

Personal Penellings.

Dr. J. A. Hodges made a brief visit to Greensboro this week.

Mr. R. F. Devane, of Red Springs, visited Fayetteville last Tuesday.

Mr. J. H. Johnson, of Hope Mills, was in town day before yesterday.

Mr. Jno. M. Rose, Secretary of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, made a business trip to Wilmington last week.

Miss Emma Murchison was a visitor to the beautiful and interesting Commencement exercises of Salem Female Academy.

Mr. W. A. Moore, a director of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, and a prominent citizen of Surry county, spent a day or two in Fayetteville last week.

Miss Lizzie D. Sutton, of Fayetteville, was a graduate of the class of '90 at Salem Female Academy. Her sister, Miss Hattie, was the accomplished Valedictorian last year.

Mr. Chase, Superintendent of the Clarendon Water Works of Wilmington, accompanied by his wife, passed through this city last Monday on his way to the western part of the State.

Rev. W. J. Erdman, the Bible teacher, and Mr. F. H. Cota, General Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association at Greensboro, passed through the city last Monday, bound west.

Col. Julius A. Gray, President of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, came down last Wednesday night in his special car, accompanied by Dr. D. W. C. Benbow, one of the directors of the road.

Mr. A. D. McGill returned from Salem Female Academy exercises last week, delighted with everything about that admirable institution, and especially enraptured with the music. His daughter goes back next session.

The Crop Outlook.

The allowance of rain in the immediate Fayetteville locality has been scant during the spring, but the general crop prospects for this section are good, from all the information we have been able to gather. Fine rains have within the past few days fallen all around us, and cotton, corn and small grain are reported looking well. The truck gardens in the immediate vicinity of Fayetteville are perhaps a little backward, but the city market is already fairly supplied with vegetables—remarkably fine potatoes and cabbage in abundance, with a moderately good supply of beets, beans, peas, etc.

Sad Death.

As we go to press (Wednesday evening) we share in the shock experienced by the community generally at the death of Mrs. G. G. Harley, wife of the General Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, who departed this life at about 3:30 P. M.—stricken down in the bloom and blush of young wifehood. Though her stay in our midst could be counted by weeks, she had drawn to her heart as many loving friends as a lovely christian woman could win, and the grief will be general and sincere. Her remains will be conveyed to Spartansburg, S. C.

Bachelor of Arts.

Mr. Chas. Rankin, of this city, was one of the 21 students composing the graduating class at the Commencement of the University of North Carolina. The subject of his address was "The Future of United Italy," of which the reporter of the News and Observer says: "It was a pretty subject and handled in a beautiful manner by the speaker. He showed fine powers as an orator." May the scholastic honors which auspiciously cluster about the threshold of Mr. Rankin's career typify his whole future life.

DIED.

ROSENTHAL—In this city, on the 9th inst., RAYMOND, infant son of George and Fannie Rosenthal, aged 6 months.

IN MEMORIAM.

Died, on the 30th of May, ANNIE, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Jessup.

We, who were her school-mates, can, perhaps, in some degree, sympathise with the family of this young girl in their great sorrow and bereavement, for by daily companionship could we judge of her.

A few months ago she was with us in vigor and health, but no one knows when or how soon they may be called away. By her sweetness and gentleness did she endear herself to us, and by her never-failing willingness to do all that lay in her power for others. She was loved by all who knew her, and surely we, her school-mates, are able to appreciate her lovable qualities.

Never do we remember having heard a harsh word from her lips, or seen an angry frown upon her brow. She was always slow to take offence and quick to forgive. More than this we cannot say, for higher praise we do not know. And surely she has left a sweet and gracious memory on the hearts of her schoolmates. And though she went in her early girlhood to explore that "undiscovered country," and we, her school-mates go out into the world, yet we shall never forget the sweet young girl who was "one of us" so long, without a pang of sorrow, that she should have been called away so soon, even though we know that she is free from her pain, and trust that she is at rest in Paradise.

It was just an ordinary scrap of wrapping paper, but it saved her life. She was in the last stages of consumption, told by physicians that she was incurable and could live only a short time; she weighed less than seventy pounds. On a piece of wrapping paper she read of Dr. King's New Discovery, and got a sample bottle; it helped her, she bought a large bottle, it helped her more, bought another and grew better fast, continued its use and is now strong, healthy, rosy, plump, weighing 140 pounds. YOU WEAR SHOES?

For the past 25 years I have carefully studied the wants of the Farmer, the Merchant, the Mechanic and the laboring population, in endeavoring to place before them Shoes which I can fully warrant—and after mature deliberation and experiments have adopted three brands suitable for any wear.

For the Farmer, who certainly deserves first attention, I have secured for ladies, gentlemen and children a shoe that I take pleasure in showing. These are made in Georgia out of Georgia leather, tanned with red oak bark, native to the State, carefully and honestly made and by far the most superior shoe I or any one else has ever shown in this section. They are made for

Heavy Work, Wear and Comfort, and combine all of these qualities. I desire to place at least one pair of them in every household where the OBSERVER is read, and if you buy one pair, and test them, you will never be satisfied with any other Shoe.

Mark My Word,

For the Mechanic

and laboring class generally, men and women who labor faithfully day after day, and should be accorded every advantage possible in judiciously placing their earnings, we show the Bay State Shoe. This Shoe has a national reputation. It has been before the public for so long a period as to become a standard. Ask for a Bay State Shoe and you will get your money's worth.

They are Honestly Made.

FOR THE MERCHANT

we show the old reliable brand of Ziegler Bros. It is not necessary to tell you about the merits of this shoe. Their reputation is established. There are other Zeiglers who make shoes—but remember that are the old original makers, and also remember that I am the only person in Fayetteville who can buy them from the manufacturers.

ZIEGLER BROS.

WELL,

in conclusion, I beg to say to my friends, my patrons and the public that I have

QUIT THE SALE

of all other brands of shoes, excepting those mentioned above.

WHY?

Simply because the goods I offer you will give satisfaction—and the other brands I handled I am aware did not.

Owing to the Quantity of these goods I handle, I have the agency for the sale of

The Georgia Shoe
(for 9 counties),
The Bay State Shoe,
Ziegler Bros. Shoe,

and am positively the only merchant you can obtain these goods from in Fayetteville.

I carry in stock more shoes, and sell during a season than all of the houses in Fayetteville combined.

MORE SHOES

MY PRAYER.

"Give her, I pray, all good;
Bid all the buds of pleasure grow
To perfect flowers of happiness,
Where'er her feet may go.
Bid Truth's bright shield and Love's strong arm
Protect her from all earthly harm.
Lest there should be some other thing
Better than all the rest,
That I have failed to ask," I said,
"Give thou the very best
Of every gift, that Thou must deem,
Better than aught I hope or dream."

She lies before me still and pale!
The roses that I prayed
Might bloom along her path of life
Are on her bosom laid.
Crowned with a strange rapt calm, she lies
Like one made dumb by sweet surprise.
"Better than I can ask or dream!"
This was my prayer; and now
That she is lying, still and pale,
With God's peace on her brow—
I wonder, sobbing, sore-dismayed,
If this be that for which I prayed!

Fodder Corn.

After the field corn is planted, plant an acre or two of fodder corn, to furnish succulent green food for cows, pigs and horses when the dry, hot, summer weather comes in July and August. No matter if pasture is abundant, the crop will not come amiss, and it is well to be provided with an abundance of good fodder. It is much cheaper to raise plenty of fodder than it is to buy it—or go without. Plow up the ground, harrow it fine, run the rows off three feet apart, spread manure in the furrows, and sow the corn in the drills eight to ten grains to the running foot, and cover with cultivator. If manure cannot be had, sow some standard phosphate, one handful to every three feet of row, and keep the soil cultivated between the rows. Rough, stony ground had better have the corn broadcasted, and harrow the corn in. Broadcasting is not as economical a way as growing in drills, but it is much better than going without. Land that is thin and about run out had better be put in this crop, or an equally good plan is to check the land out both ways, put a little fertilizer (one handful to three hills) in the hill, and drop four or five grains to the hill. Give good cultivation, and when the silk on the ear is black and dried cut and shock it in good-sized shocks, and feed it dry as wanted during the late fall and early winter.

Ploughing Land.

Germantown Telegraph.]

Very much has been written and said about ploughing ground when it is too wet, but very seldom, if ever, is anything said regarding ploughing it when it is too dry, although the effects are nearly as bad. There is a medium between the two extremes, and that is when there is sufficient moisture to cause the furrows to fall loosely from the plough with no appearance of packing or lumps. On sandy or dry soils it is best to turn the furrows flat, while on low or strong soils it is believed to be better to let the furrows lap a little, leaving an air-space between. Among the numerous points of merit in ploughing the following may be mentioned: 1. Furrows should be straight, of uniform width and depth. 2. There should be a clean-cut slice. 3. The furrow should be well laid, having regard to compactness and form. 4. The complete burial of all grass or stubble turned in. A uniformly ploughed ridge. 6. A finish showing an open furrow with a clean, narrow bottom, the last furrow being equal in width and height with the others.

Experiments with Manure.

Last season investigations were made at the experiment station of Cornell University to determine the loss by leaching and fermentation of the farmyard manure from exposure. The result of the one season's trial [illegible] seems to show that horse manure thrown in a loose pile and subjected to the action of the elements will lose nearly one-half of its valuable fertilizing constituents in six months; that mixed horse and cow manure in a compact mass and so placed that all water falling on it quickly runs through and off is subjected to a considerable, though not so great a loss, and that no appreciable loss occurs when manure simply dries. Professor Shelton, from similar experiences at the Kansas experiment station, is quoted as saying that "the moral which such experiments emphasize is that farmyard manures must be hauled out in the spring, otherwise the loss of manure is sure to be great, the waste in the course of six months amounting to fully one-half the gross manure and nearly 40 per cent. of the nitrogen it contained."

Common Sense Bee Hives.

An apiarian in Florida Dispatch remarks upon bee hives as follows: It is a fact well known to bee keepers that—other things being equal—bees will do as well in a section of a hollow log, nail keg, barrel, straw clamp, etc., as in any patent arrangement ever invented, the difficulty being that one cannot properly handle them in such receptacles to make them profitable; therefore, the simplest and least expensive hives are the best. Let them be well made of seasoned wood, and receive two coats of good paint outside. Have all the hives in your apiary of exactly one size, so that the frames may be interchangeable. Just here I will say that I would not give a nickel for any patent arrangement for bee hives ever invented.

Scours in Calves.

There is no remedy so good as prevention to scour in calves. Hoard's Dairyman names four conditions which are very productive of this derangement of the bowels: 1. Feeding milk cold. It will pay you to warm the milk till the calf is 8 months old. 2. Feeding the milk sour. 3. Not feeding often enough. A calf should be fed at least four times a day; then he does not gorge. 4. Keeping the calf perfectly dry. This last is a most important provision, but it is imperative. Wet bedding will sicken a calf as soon as anything in the world. Keep these conditions always in mind if you want healthy calves.

Bricking the Inside of a Silo.

A Wisconsin farmer, writing to Hoard's Dairyman, suggests lining the inside of a silo with bricks laid edgewise. He says: It will cost a trifle more on the start, but is far cheaper in the end, if well done throughout, and kept well painted on the outside. I don't see why it won't last an age, or as long as one man will wish to see it. Another thing, brick is a great absorbent, which I think will have a tendency to preserve the corners.

In laying the brick I would occasionally insert a steel wire spike, which would insure its remaining firm to the side.

A Surprise to the Bishop.

San Francisco Argonaut.]

A north-of England bishop had among his parishioners a worthy but rather rough fellow, who was in the habit of using a good deal of profanity in his speech. On being remonstrated with, he exclaimed:

"Well, d——n it, I say what I mean, and I believe in calling a spade a spade."

"Indeed," replied the bishop, "I thought you would call it a d——d old shovel."

The King of Italy's health since the death of his brother, the Duke of Aosta has occasioned much anxiety. Nothing can rouse him from his melancholy.

JOHNSTON'S VEGETABLE NOLANDINE!
The Great Virginia Vegetable Alterative,
BLOOD PURIFIER AND RENOVATOR
—OF THE—
HUMAN SYSTEM!

Has been used most successfully in the following Diseases, as the Certificates below will attest:

For Liver Complaint, Jaundice and Bilious Derangement. In Mercurial, Blood Poison, Scrofulous and all Eruptive Diseases, Costiveness, Indigestion Flatulence, Periodical Sick Headache and Female Complaints.

READ THE CERTIFICATES.

From Virginia Medical Monthly (September number, 1889) Landon B. Edwards, M. D., editor and proprietor, Richmond:

"THE NOLANDINE COMPANY, of Richmond, Va., begin an advertisement in this issue of preparations which have received the highest kind of professional endorsements for the cure of chills and fever, functional liver troubles, etc. The virtues of the drugs named seem to rest in the special manner of their combination. During a recent visit to the laboratory we were courteously shown every detail of the manufacture."

I have used your vegetable preparation, "NOLANDINE," and find it a valuable agent in the treatment of functional diseases of the liver. Its action on that organ and all secreting glands is equal to that of calomel, and to my mind, the only yet discovered substitute for this time-honored remedy. It is, furthermore, entirely free from constitutional effects too often observed from the use of mercurials; and, in many cases, where mercurials have been incautiously administered, I have witnessed the beneficial results of "NOLANDINE," in eliminating and modifying the most distressing after symptoms. I will add, in regard to your Fever and Ague Preparation, that I prescribed it for my mother, who had been a sufferer from chills and fever for twelve months. She had taken quinine until it had ceased to have any effect on her. One-half bottle of my NOLANDINE for chills and fever relieved her entirely of the chills and restored her to good health.

I cheerfully recommend a trial of NOLANDINE to the profession, believing that it will stand their test.
Very truly yours, A. TRENT CLARKE, M. D.

The very high character of the testimonials attesting the merits of your vegetable preparation, NOLANDINE, induced me to make a test of your NOLANDINE proper in a very desperate case of Hydrothorax [dropsy of the chest], combined with Ascites [dropsy of abdomen]. The usual remedies known to our profession had been most skilfully administered without producing anticipated effects. The diseases yielded to the action of your NOLANDINE. I very gratefully state that my patient is now enjoying the blessings of a restoration to good health, and now, four months since administering your NOLANDINE, there is not a symptom of recurrence.

I had several opportunities of testing the merits of your NOLANDINE for chills and fever in cases which had resisted the usual remedies for months, and had the satisfaction to see them entirely broken and permanently cured after a course of your NOLANDINE.

I know that I will incur the displeasure of the profession by departing from its usages, but candor and facts compel me to call the attention of my professional brethren to the valuable properties of your preparation, and trust that prejudice will not deter them from its use. I have found the action of your NOLANDINE on the liver and secretions more than equal to calomel, which is an additional recommendation.
Very respectfully, A. G. JONES, M. D.
409 EAST CLAY STREET, RICHMOND, VA., April 19, 1887.

J. W. Johnston, Proprietor of Nolandine:
During the last twelve months I have had frequent opportunities of testing the curative properties of your VEGETABLE NOLANDINE in the following diseases, and in not a single case did it fail to accomplish all that you claim for it: Dyspepsia and other catarrhal affections of the stomach and bowels, catarrhal affections of the kidneys and bladder, uterine catarrh and irregularities, malarial complications and habitual constipation, and as a general tonic and alterative, I have found it very efficacious.
Yours truly, JAS. A. GARLICK, M. D.
IRWIN P. O., GOOCHLAND, VA., August 1, 1889.

To the Nolandine Company, Richmond, Va.:
From personal experience I can very cheerfully recommend NOLANDINE for all it claims, and, in this opinion, I am borne out by others who have tested its merits.
Yours truly, G. H. PALMER MOREWOOD.
TAYLORSVILLE, HANOVER COUNTY, VA.

The Nolandine Company, Richmond, Va.:
Gentlemen:—I have been a great sufferer from blood poison, which caused large sores to come all over my legs and feet, so that I could hardly wear my shoes, when I received a bottle of NOLANDINE from a friend. I began using it at once, and in less than ten days it had cured me completely. I think it the best remedy in the world. I am yours very respectfully, WM. H. TERRY.

To the Nolandine Company: June 1, 1889.
Permit me to add my testimony to the curative properties of NOLANDINE. For many years I have suffered from varicose veins. Twelve months ago I struck my leg against a chair, breaking one of the veins. The wound thus made could not be healed, except for a short time, then break out afresh. At times I suffered untold misery from local fever and most insufferable burning sensation After using two (2) bottles of your VEGETABLE NOLANDINE the ulcerated places healed, the swelling disappeared, natural sleep was restored, and my nervous system composed. As a vermifuge, NOLANDINE acted specifically on one of my children. As a blood purifier and general tonic you [illegible] NOLANDINE has no equal. Gratefully yours, D. B. PROSSER.
At S. S. Cottrell's Son, 1302 Main Street, Richmond, Va.

RICHMOND, VA., October, 1886.
My wife and three children returned to this city from Charles City County, where they contracted chills and fever, and their systems thoroughly saturated with malarial poison. One bottle of JOHNSTON'S VEGETABLE NOLANDINE cured my entire family. My wife suffered for five years with dyspepsia in its most aggravated form, and was permanently cured by VEGETABLE NOLANDINE, using only two bottles. J. B. BURTON.

RICHMOND, VA., July 1889.
This is to certify that I have known of the superior qualities of JOHNSTON'S VEGETABLE NOLANDINE for the past ten years, and during that time, at intervals, have had occasion to use it in person, and in my family, and have always found it a sure cure for derangements of the liver and kidneys, indigestion, headache, etc., and a good tonic. L. C. DAVIS, 804 North Fifth Street.

ROBIOW'S STATION, CHESTERFIELD CO., VA., March 25, 1885.
Mr. J. W. Johnston:
Dear Sir.—Having suffered for years with a chronic affection of the kidneys, derangement of the liver, and my general system charged with malarial poison, I found no relief from treatment of medicine until I used VEGETABLE NOLANDINE. I am now free from above complaints, and to NOLANDINE I am indebted for this restoration to health. I honestly recommend it to all persons suffering from the above diseases. WILLIAM DICKSON, Superintendent of Coal Mines.

RICHMOND, VA., May, 1885.
I can cheerfully recommend JOHNSTON'S VEGETABLE NOLANDINE to any one suffering from liver or kidney complaints and bilious derangement of the system. Its prompt and permanent action in my case affords me pleasure to recommend it to others similarly affected.
CHARLES P. SELDEN, Hardware Merchant,
Formerly with Singer Sewing Machine Co.
409 EAST CLAY STREET, RICHMOND, VA., March 10, 1886.

Mr. Jos W. Johnston:
Dear Sir:—I have used your NOLANDINE, and would cheerfully recommend it as a valuable medicine for malarial diseases and for promoting appetite, and a splendid tonic. For the relief of the pains consequent upon female weakness and irregularities I consider it without an equal.
Respectfully, MRS. L. M. BELL.

OFFICE CHESAPEAKE AND OHIO RAILWAY COMPANY,
RICHMOND, VA., March 1, 1885.
I lived on lower James River for eight years in the malarial district. My system was thoroughly charged with this deadly poison. I exhausted the usually prescribed and domestic remedies without any benefit. I was induced to try JOHNSTON'S VEGETABBE NOLANDINE. Before using two bottles my liver was aroused from its long torpor, and I am now enjoying the best of health. My wife and children derived the same benefits from NOLANDINE. J. A. WYATT.

FLEET, KING AND QUEEN CO., VA., JANUARY 31, 1887.
I was afflicted with chills and fever during the fall of last year. I could stop them with quinine, but they wouldn't stay stopped; they would return the 7th, 14th, 21st, or 28th days. A friend gave me a part of a bottle of NOLANDINE, and I used it according to directions, and I have not had a chill since. I am in good health and weigh as much or more than I ever did. E. S. WILSON.

509 NORTH EIGHTH STREET, RICHMOND, VA.
Mr. Johnston:
Dear Sir:—Your NOLANDINE has quite come up to all its promises. So valuable do I consider it as a family medicine that, unsolicited by yourself, I offer my certificate.
Yours truly, MRS. E. F. PATTON.
RICHMOND, VA., July 13, 1887.

J. W. Johnston, Proprietor Nolandine:
Dear Sir:—I have taken your NOLANDINE for habitual constipation of eight years' standing, during which time I have tried many preparations, but I did not receive any relief until I used your preparation, from which I have received immediate and permanent benefits. Was also suffering with malarial and blood poison. I am now free from all such complications and, I am happy to say, enjoying exceptionally good health.
Yours truly, J. B. DOWDEN.
412 EAST BROAD STREET, RICHMOND, VA.

J. W. Johnston:
I feel it but just to recommend your valuable medicine, NOLANDINE, for any trouble caused by torpid liver, or constipation produced by morphine or any drug used to subdue pain. As a tonic for delicate females it is unsurpassed.
The above you are heartily welcome to use any way you deem best, and I will personally tell any one what it will do or application. Respectfully, MRS. A. E. ANTHONY.
RICHMOND, VA., October 1, 1889.

To whom it may concern:
For twelve months I was a fearful sufferer from chronic eczema, during which time I was in the hands of a most skillful physician, faithfully using his remedies, internal and external, without deriving any benefit whatever. I suffered night and day with the most intolerable itching, continuous headace, loss of sleep, appetite and strength. My kidneys and nervous system were fearfully deranged, and my body was covered with innumerable boils. By taking three (3) bottles of JOHNSTON'S VEGETABLE NOLANDINE I have been restored to perfect health. I regard NOLANDINE as the best blood purifier and the most powerful tonic ever compounded, and I am not alone in this belief.
Very respectfully yours, &c., H. B. GRUBBS.
